Glór na nGael National Award

Cumann Gaelach Leath Chathail has been awarded a Gold Medal by the annual Glór na nGael awards. The Medal is recognition of the high quality of voluntary work to promote the Irish language in the Lecale areas over the past three years.

Voluntary community groups like Cumann are assessed on the work they carry out in the fields of planning, education, youth work, publicity and promoting the Irish language in the community and families. Thanking all those who helped, chairperson of the committee, Éamonn Mac Con Midhe said that with such voluntary effort with little resources we can look forward to the continued growth of the Irish language in the area. Glór Uachtar Tíre in Castlewellsan has also recently heard that it has been awarded second place in the prestigious competition. It won second place in the category for towns under 10,000 population. Glór Uachtar Tíre will be awarded €4,000 in recognition of its work.
